WAIALEE IS A SUCCESS

SUPERINTENDENT ATKINSON RETURNS FROM A VISIT TO THE INSTITUTION FOR BOYS.

The Superintendent of Public Instruction, A. T. Atkinson, returned this morning from a trip to the Waialea Industrial School where he made a thorough inspection of the whole institution.

"I can say that the place is in really excellent condition," said the Superintendent today. "The boys are healthy, well fed, well clothed, unquestionably happy and they are getting just the sort of instruction with the necessary amount of restraint to make them useful members of society when they branch out into the world. In an institution of this sort discipline must be maintained at all costs and it was particularly gratifying to find that there is no trouble on that score. As a matter of absolute record there is less corporal punishment there than there is in most day schools and even minor offenses are by no means as frequent as one would expect in a crowd of healthy lads."

There are now 110 boys on the books of the institution. Of these, 102 are at the school, two are in the hospital in Honolulu, one is in jail and five are on parole. The parole system we have found to work with excellent effect for on only one occasion has it been necessary to take back a boy who was out on parole.

"The boys are employed at many different pursuits and as a result they will leave there with a knowledge of things which will be simply invaluable to them. They are taught blacksmithing, dairying, carpentering, gardening, general farming and now we are doing our own building there. The work is never so hard as to be burdensome and some of the lads show a marked aptitude for some of the different occupations. In the farming and gardening sections this is particularly noticeable. We have 500 banana plants in, we have five acres of sweet potatoes partly planted and two acres of vegetable garden where the boys raise beans, onions, peppers, melons, squashes and in fact nearly every variety of vegetable. They also cultivate the taro patch which is two acres in extent, and half an acre of sorghum. In live stock we have nine cows, a bull and three calves, two horses, two mules and nineteen pigs. The boys are of course taught to look after the stock. In addition to this, they get two hours of school a day and are also well drilled."

"The Saturday and Sunday routines which are attended are simple" continued the Superintendent "Saturday morning after the usual watering has been done, the boys have to mend their clothes for they are all taught to sew, and the rest of the day is practically a holiday. In the afternoon they are marched down to the sea and do as they please about the beach and in the surf. Some of the lads are excellent fishermen and they take the greatest delight in that pursuit, the catch is added to the table supplies. On Sunday at ten o'clock there is a church parade and service is read by Superintendent Gibson. Yesterday after service I addressed the boys on the subject of 'Duty' in the afternoon they attended Sunday school for an hour after which they have drill."

"The boys are kept busy. Their time is fully occupied and they are given plenty of time for as much relaxation as a boy requires. There is a healthy atmosphere about the whole place and I feel fully justified in saying that it is a place of which not only the department but the people of the whole territory may well be proud. It is a standing proof of the fact that the boys are not bad in any sense of the word. They are full of life and spirits and with their energies thus properly directed they cannot fail to become useful citizens. The question of race does not enter into consideration for we have them all, Hawaiians, Americans, Porto Ricans, Portuguese and mixed races as well and there is a good natured rivalry between them all."

Miss Rose Davidson, school agent went up to Waialea on Sunday morning and assisted the Superintendent in the inspection of the school.

BRILLIANT DANCES.

Royal Hawaiian Hotel Entertaining Tourists and Transport Passengers.

Never perhaps in the history of the Hawaiian Hotel has there been such brilliant entertainment for tourists as on the occasion of the band concert and dance for the 200 through passengers by the Mongolia on Friday evening and for the dance Saturday evening for the large number of army officers and ladies on the transport Sherman. The new light effects (for which the lanais and ground afford such excellent scope) produced on the evening of the 4th of July, were repeated on both these dance nights, and their beauty was a revelation to the through passengers, many of whom were heard to exclaim that they had never seen such magnificent illuminations of any hotel in any country. There is no doubt that a great impression was made on these stranger visitors. It is understood that these special decorations, which were installed for the 4th of July, will be taken down today, but that the wiring will be retained for use on future occasions.

The dancing lanais were crowded on both evenings and the scene was particularly brilliant especially on the night when the Mongolia was in port, as there was quite a gathering of very fashionably dressed ladies, who, after dining in the open-air dining rooms, participated in the dancing and whose presence added brilliance to the spectacle. It was noticed that there were a number of prominent people of the wealthy class among the big liner's passengers.

PRINCESS WILL RECEIVE.

NEBRASKAN AT KAHULUI.

WAILUKU, July 9.—The S. S. Nebraska arrived at Kahului yesterday morning. She is to take 2500 tons of sugar at this port, and will take on a like amount at Kapaemahu. She will leave Kahului for Kapaemahu this evening. The Nevada has been delayed one day and will arrive at Kahului tomorrow morning.

WAILUKU HAS A KICK.

WAILUKU, July 9.—Wailuku's sidewalks are in a deplorable condition and unless something is done shortly to repair them, some accident will befall. The Improvement Association know this condition and have therefore referred the matter to a committee of three persons. It is understood that the committee has communicated with Superintendent Holloway, but that the reply was not very satisfactory. Some of the planks in the sidewalk have been in from time immemorial occasionally a few new planks having been put in. Especially the Market section of the sidewalk is in sore need of a few new additional boards so as not to endanger the lives of the walking community. If the sidewalks are not put in condition in a short time, people may have to take the main road and avoid the possibility of an accident.
